Ideas

Protestants are, on occasion, allowed to receive Holy Communion in a Catholic church, but Catholics are forbidden to share the Eucharist at Protestant services. Father Callam examines the theological principles that govern the Church's stance on intercommunion.

BISHOP RICHARD GRECCO APPOINTED BISHOP OF CHARLOTTETOWN, PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND

Pope Benedict XVI, has appointed Bishop Richard Grecco, presently Auxiliary Bishop of the Archdiocese of Toronto as the Bishop of Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island. At the same time he accepted the resignation of Bishop Vernon Fougere, Charlottetown's bishop since 1992, for reasons of health.

Upon learning of his appointment, Bishop Grecco commented: "I am humbled by the announcement of the Holy Father and look forward with great joy to serving the people of the Diocese of Charlottetown. I send my thoughts and prayers to all those on Prince Edward Island and look forward to joining their community shortly." In response to Pope Benedict XVI's announcement, Bishop Fougere stated: "It has been a tremendous blessing to serve as shepherd to Prince Edward Island's Catholic community since 1992. Serving the faithful in this beautiful province has been one of the real joys of my life. I thank the Holy Father for providing me the opportunity to retire and address some personal health issues, specifically a troubling lung ailment. I ask for your continued prayers and know that all Islanders will welcome Bishop Grecco with open arms."

Bishop Richard Grecco was born in St. Catharines, Ontario. He completed his theological studies at St. Augustine's Seminary, Toronto; the Gregorian University in Rome; and in 1982 he received the degree of Doctor of Theology from the University of St. Michael's College, Toronto. Ordained a priest in 1973 for the Diocese of St. Catharines, he was named Auxiliary Bishop of London in 1997. Pope John Paul II appointed him Auxiliary Bishop of the Archdiocese of Toronto in 2002.

An announcement regarding the date of installation for Bishop Grecco is expected to be made in the next week. In the interim, the Holy Father has appointed Bishop Fougere as Apostolic Administrator until the installation of the 13th Bishop of Charlottetown.

The Diocese of Charlottetown has a Catholic population of 63,240 with 58 parishes and missions that extend across the province.

Please pray for Bishop Richard Grecco.

With only a couple weeks remaining, the 2009 ShareLife Parish Appeal is near the $10 million mark, but remains $2 million shy of the goal for this year. (Holy Rosary Parish is currently at 72% of its goal.) Thanks to all who have contributed to the campaign already! And for those who haven't been able to contribute yet, please do so as best you can. Contributions received by July 31st will count toward the 2009 parish campaign total.

Show me your feet. Are they wounded in service? Show
